

Absent Friends.

They fade not away with the flower
That rides on the wing of the hour;
But when clouds of Adversity roll,
Ever present with inspiring power,
Their smiles, like the life-giving shower,
Slake the thirst of the desolate soul.

FROM

Fanny L. Brewster