with me and I begin to realize that I am getting to be quite old. Twenty-one is March just thinks of it, I used to think in my school days that a person was greatly old after they had passed twenty. I do not feel very aged however, as I am at your spare care and am as much in the way of amusement.

I can not write long letters to write every week, but still while you write about letters

My dear Mother,

Saw your that she went gather on the street a few days ago and he gave me an invitation to come to East Dennis this week. If you see me shall hardly get away from Oyster bay. I am sure thinks he can not leave his business until I do not wish to come without a carry. Possibly may be done sooner. August night, we have not quite decided. Anna Dickencase betrayed in Bath, after seeing Emily, so if we are here, we shall go to hear her.

Many wrote to know if I was on the train for the money. I am not ill, I dress, tell her to leave it until I come home in April, that will be time enough.

We have been having some very cold weather and yesterday it was especially bleak, John and I went to church, wifi, standing but were disappointed in finding none one in Dr.
Brown's place, where we did not like.

We are expecting some friends to play cards this evening which is our favorite game and makes a pleasant entertainment until our friends. I am attending a course of readings by Prof.
Raymond, and enjoy them very much. They come on Wednesdays afternoon and consist of high readings of Shakespeare's plays.
The time flies very

My dear Mother.

Sam said that he met father on the street a few days ago and he gave us an invitation to come to East Dennis this week. I fear we shall hardly get away from Boston before spring as Sam thinks he can not leave his business and I do not wish to come without him. Possibly we may be down, however, Saturday night, we have not decided. Anna Dickinson lectures in Boston Sunday evening so if we are here, we shall go to hear her.

Mary wrote to know if I was in a hurry for the money, due on Nellie's dress. Tell her to leave it until I come home in April, that will be time enough.

We have been having some very cold weather and yesterday it was especially bleak. Sam and I went to church notwithstanding but were disappointed in finding some one in Dr. Miners place, whom we did not like.

We are expecting some friends in to play whist this evening, which is our favorite game and makes a pleasant entertainment for friends. I am attending a course of readings by Prof Raymond, and enjoy them very much. they come on Wednesday afternoons and consist of six readings of Shakespeare plays

The time files very fast with me and I begin to realize that I am getting to be quite old, twenty five in March, just think of it. I used to think in my school days that a person was fearfully old after they had passed twenty. I do not feel very aged, however, as I am so free from care, and am having so much in the way of amusement.

I can not write long letters when I write every week, but will try and write short letters often.

With much love, Eva.
