Robert Crowell Taylor, formerly of 133 Bellevue ave, has been commissioned as an officer in the U S Naval Reserve with the rank of lieutenant (jg). He was sales manager of the North Shore Broadcasting Co before joining the Navy, where he is serving as deck officer. He was graduated from Yale University in 1931.
Journey’s End Nov 21-1943

Dear Robert,

I was so glad to get your long interesting letter and especially to know the dear old Cape still holds many charms for you. Your plans for the future are so visible to me that even now I imagine I hear the chickens peeping, hen clucking, eggs frying in the pan and old Moolycow quietly chewing her cud. I am wondering who is going to milk her - an accomplishment of mine in my girlhood days? And again I wonder when the other Mrs. Robert Corwell Raynor is to appear in the picture. I am anticipating your answer to both. Your love I sent to your Earl Tennis friends. I am giving wish’s received a goodly amount.
Journey’s End  Nov 21 – 1943

Dear Robert

I was so glad to get your long interesting letter and especially to know the dear old Cape still holds many Charms for you. Your plans for the future are so visible to me that even now I imagine I hear the chickens peeping, Hens clacking, Eggs frying in the pan and old Hooly cow quietly chewing her cud. I am wondering who is going to milk her – An accomplishment of mine in my girlhood days? And again I wonder when the future Mrs. Robert Crowell Taylor is to appear in the picture. Am anticipating you answer to both. Your love sent to your East Dennis friends I am giving from time to time, but as you wished reserved a goodly amount for myself. [over page]

They seemed pleased to be remembered and interested in your welfare.

I must close now so Cheerio

Lots of love, Success, good Cheer, and A Happy new year

Grandma

[A clipping from an unidentified newspaper is with this letter:]

Robert Crowell Taylor, formerly of 133 Bellevue ave, has been commissioned as an officer in the U S Naval Reserve with the rank of lieutenant (jg). He was sales manager for the North Shore Broadcasting Co before joining the Navy, where he is serving as deck officer. He was graduated from Yale in 193[torn].